1	4/21/2023	I've used the anti graffiti sacrificial coatings (not cheap) before. This is fine for the outside wall. But the skateable transition it can effect the surface making it slippery or spread a wax like substance. I am looking into other clear coating options that wouldn't make the surface slippery & the park dangerous. I can Allways attach an potential addenda if the artwork on the keyhole was damaged I could repair it (in a reasonable Amount of time) for the first 5 years. This is a standard requirement for new murals in the Portland mural code.	I agree, the archway will likely not need the extra coating. And it would be great if you could add an addendum for fixing future damages, up to 5-years.	Trang Lam 4/24/2023
2	4/21/2023	The past 30 years of murals I have only given up my rights of ownership 2 or so times out of 20 plus large tv & movie requirements. I have no problems giving the city the rights to my artwork & to reproduce for personal or commercial use in perpetuity, I would like to retain copyright ownership to my original artwork drawing mural or otherwise ideally also, If that's possible. Or Maybe I'm reading it wrong.	Thanks for sharing this concern with me. I've asked our procurement coordinator to update the terms to have the artwork "Co-Owned" by the artist and city. This should resolve your ownership and use of the art you create.	Trang Lam 4/24/2023
3	4/21/2023	I know it was stated the name on the outside of the park it could be cool on the keyhole also.	That's the creative side we'd like to see be part of the response. Please submit what you think would look cool out there.	Trang Lam 4/24/2023

4	4/24/2023	Possibly I'll submit a couple options for artwork on it	The Instagram is to give our youth an avenue to share their ideas. Our school district has sent this out to our secondary schools, but I'm not sure how many will participate. Just keep checking. I'll be checking the hashtag toward the end of the week and may update our RFP depending on how much traffic we get from the students. So stay tune on that.	Trang Lam 4/24/2023
